Beyond Twelve Gates by Rabbi Ze'ev Smason

Beyond Twelve Gates' refers to a beautiful concept taught by the great mystic Rabbi Isaac Luria (1534-1572), also known as 'The Ari'. There exist twelve gates of prayer in Heaven — one for each tribe of Israel. There also exists a Heavenly thirteenth gate. Through this gate the prayers of all Jews, regardless of tribe, Jewish education or level of observance, are allowed to enter and are heard by G-d.

Parshas Emor

May 12, 2012

20 Iyar, 5772

Welcome to Beyond Twelve Gates

Memphis basketball coach Josh Pastner admitted to having committed a minor NCAA violation in early April, but in an odd twist he blamed the mishap on an unlikely culprit: his wife. Pastner inadvertently tweeted the name of a prized recruit in the Class of '12 on Memphis basketball's official Twitter account, a violation of NCAA protocol. Pastner explained the errant tweet as a result of being distracted by the pressures of recruiting, filling a vacancy on his staff -- and badgering from his pregnant wife -- and typed the name in Twitter instead of Google.

"My wife was yelling at me because I was on the phone too loud. I was waking (the couple's infant daughter) up and waking my wife up because I had the TV on. She was complaining that I not only woke my daughter up, but I also woke the baby inside her up because she's pregnant. So I was waking everybody up, I was getting yelled at and on top of that I was thinking, 'What's going on with recruiting?' and 'Who am I going to hire?' and I made a mistake."

The Torah (Gen.2:18) describes a wife as a man's "aizer kinegdo" (helpmate against him). The commentaries wrestle with the apparent contradiction of "helpmate against him." The explanation offered is that if the husband is worthy, his wife will help him to reach his potential. If he is misdirected and misbehaving, she will be against him. Coach Pastner shouldn't be in much trouble with the NCAA for the minor self-reported infraction. At home, however, his "aizer kinegdo" may have him still sleeping on the couch

Parshas Emor - Leviticus. 21:1 - 24:23

Following the command in last week's portion to be sanctified and holy, Parshas Emor begins by discussing various laws directed specifically to the Kohanim and the Kohen Gadol (High Priest). Included is the command for the Kohen to refrain from becoming ritually impure through contact with a dead body (except for close relatives) and increased restrictions on whom they may marry. G-d requires those with greater spiritual responsibilities to maintain a higher standard of spiritual purity. Parshas Emor contains two of the most significant mitzvos in the entire Torah; to always be mindful of not desecrating G-d's name, and on the contrary, to sanctify Him at all costs.

The Torah goes on to discuss the festivals of the year - Pesach, Shavous, Rosh Hashana, Yom Kippur, Succos and Shemini Atzeres. The festivals, including Shabbos, are referred to as moadim, appointed times; they are special days when Jews 'meet', as it were, with G-d. The festivals interrupt our ordinary weekday activities and inspire us to rededicate ourselves to those ideals that life is really about. Later, two mitzvos in the Mishkan are stated: the daily lighting of the menorah and the display of the lechem hapanim (showbread). The portion concludes with the horrible incident of a man who cursed G-d's name.

Rabbinic Ruminations

Ten years ago last week the Thiers Necklace, left to the French nation in 1881 by the widow of the French president, was worth $250,000 when it was first placed in the Louvre. The necklace, made of 145 finely graded rose pink pearls, lay in the Louvre for years. When authorities became aware of its condition, the pearls were dull, dirty looking and practically valueless. The chief gem experts of Europe were consulted. Some advised skinning the pearls -- peeling their outer layers, like one would peel an onion. But such an operation was extremely delicate and hazardous and would reduce the size of the pearls.

The French government decided against that process, and chose the alternative of finding some young woman whose constitution was such to make her a 'pearl mother.' Out of the dozens of applicants for the honor, Mlle. Grueze, a well known star of the French stage, was chosen. And so, for several months out of the year, the actress wore them. Whenever she wore them, delegates of the Louvre were close by, watching. At night, she would hand them to the watchmen, and have them returned to her the next morning. It took many years, but under Mlle. Grueze's watch and care, the Thiers Necklace was restored to its original health and beauty.

A pearl, of organic origin, draws life from human contact. If an inanimate object such as a pearl can be revitalized by human contact, imagine how far a kind word or a simple gesture can go to nourish a living, breathing entity such as a human being. In Ethics of the Fathers (1:15), Shamai taught, "Greet every person with a smiling and warm face!" Like a pearl, we all draw life from warm human contact.

Quote of the Week

"Those who danced were thought to be quite insane by those who could not hear the music". -- Anonymous

Joke of the Week

On his deathbed, Chaim looks up and says, "Is my wife here?"

His wife replies: "Yes, dear, I'm here, next to you."

So Chaim asks, "Are my children here?"

"Yes, daddy, we're all here," say the children.

Chaim inquires, "Are my other relatives also here?"

And they say, "Yes, we are all here..."

So Chaim sits up and yells, "Then why is the light on in the kitchen?!?"

Stump the Rabbi

Ask Rabbi Smason questions about Judaism. Any question is fair game! You can ask your questions in person, or by email at: Pepshort613@gmail.com

Question: What is Havdalah?

Answer: The end of Shabbos calls for a special declaration, Havdalah, which identifies Shabbos as a day distinct from the rest of the week. Havdalah means 'separation' or 'distinction.' It is said twice, once during the Saturday night Amidah and once again over a cup of wine. Like Kiddush, Havdalah is a familiar home ceremony. Although wine (or grape juice) is the preferred beverage for the ceremony, Havdalah may be said over other "important liquids" (chamar medinah). In the view of many authorities, this includes beer, milk, coffee, tea and fruit juice. Havdalah may be said either while seated or standing. The Havdalah ceremony contains the following components: a) introductory verses, b) a blessing for wine, c) a blessing for spices, d) a blessing for light, and e) the Havdalah blessing, which is the basic prayer of the mitzvah.

Getting to Know You

by Roving Reporter Robin Rickerman

This week featuring Sandy Kahn.

Tell me a bit about your family history.

My dad was born in the Ukraine, and my mom was born in St. Louis. My older sister, brother, and I were raised in a traditional Jewish home. Much of what I learned about Judaism was casually taught to me by my dad as we were having a meal or just relaxing and having a conversation. I have lived in St. Louis all of my life with the exception of one year when my husband and I lived in Omaha, during which time our oldest son was born. We returned to St. Louis so that we could raise our children near family. G-d willing, Kurt and I will be celebrating our thirtieth wedding anniversary this July 4; it seems that the entire country always joins in our simcha!!

What is your favorite Jewish Holiday?

My favorite holiday is really the time around the Jewish New Year. I love being with people, and this is definitely a time when family and friends always make it a point to be together.

What is something about you that most people don't know?

I spent twenty-five years as a computer programmer/analyst and during that time received my Bachelor of Science Degree at the age of 49. When both of my sons had completed their college educations, I decided that I wanted a career in helping others and making a difference in their lives. After researching my options, I was hired by Parkway School District to teach GED classes to the inmates at the County Justice Center in Clayton, i.e., the jail. I was very well accepted by the inmates since I gave them the same respect that I expected from them and, thus, had a very high success rate of GED graduates.

How did we become so fortunate to have you so involved at Nusach Hari?

When we were shopping for shuls, we had already been attending pizza nights at NHBZ and decided to attend services. We loved Rabbi Smason's sermons (we could relate to them) and felt so comfortable by his warmth and that of the congregants that we knew we had found our home.

If you could travel, ANY WHERE IN THE WORLD, where would you go and what would you do?

Since my sons do not live in St. Louis, my priority in travel is visiting them and their beautiful families. Wherever we can all be together is the place that I want to be.
